Dragnet Out For Killers Of Anastasia

Stream of Underworld Characters Rounded Up In New York Probe

NEW YORK (AP)—Police called in a stream of underworld characters today in a search for clues in the killing of bigshot mobster Albert Anastasia, rubbed out by two gunmen in a plush barbershop of a midtown hotel.

Anastasia, 55, former boss of the old Murder, Inc., syndicate, who assertedly fingered dozens of victims himself, was riddled with five bullets by two masked gunmen as he sat in a barber chair Friday morning.

After pumping shots in Anastasia's head, back, hip and hand the assassins, each wearing a glove on his trigger hand, slipped quietly from the shop and apparently escaped by subway.

One of the death guns was found just outside the barbershop, the other in a pile of litter that came from a trash basket near the 55th street entrance of the BMT subway. This entrance adjoins the 32-story Park Sheraton Hotel, scene of the slaying.

A hundred detectives were assigned to search for Anastasia's murderers—and the motive behind the killing.

ONE RANKING police official said Anastasia "was taking over the mob" and that professional gunmen were brought in by a rival group to thwart that ambition. He said of the gunmen: "They knew their job well, it was obviously a professional job and they didn't want to have any blundering as they did in the Costello shooting."

He was referring to the wounding of gambler Frank Costello, whose skull was nicked with a bullet last May 2 as he entered the foyer of his apartment.

Among those questioned was Anthony Coppola, 49, Anastasia's bodyguard and chauffeur. Coppola said he was at his home in Fairview, N. J., when he learned Anastasia was killed.

Coppola, who surrendered himself for questioning, was quoted as saying he picked up Anastasia's car at 11 a. m., 40 minutes after Anastasia was murdered, in a parking lot not far from the Park Sheraton, and drove it to his New Jersey home. Coppola said Anastasia had put the car in the lot at 8 a. m.

After Coppola left a police station, chief of detectives James B. Leggett said Coppola lied about his activities Friday morning.

LEGGETT SAID Coppola admitted approaching the Park Sheraton to meet Anastasia minutes after the shooting, learned what happened, and left. The chief said Coppola drove to his Fairview home and then had the car driven to the downtown parking lot where it was found Friday night.

There was no explanation of why the bodyguard was not with Anastasia during the morning. A 15-state alarm was sent out for the killers of Anastasia, who beat the electric chair in five different slayings and was reputed to have had a hand in at least 30 others.

During his gangland career the Italian-born Anastasia served time on only two charges—one of carrying a weapon and another of evading $11,743 in federal income taxes in 1947-48. He got two years on the former and one on the latter.

END OF THE CHASE — After a frantic chase through the streets of San Francisco, Charles Puchinsky, 26, an alleged hit-and-run driver is finally subdued by police. As the photo shows, taking him into custody was quite a wrestling match. One officer is twisting his leg; another holds his shoes and hands stretch out to grab his arm at right. During the pursuit, 14 bullets were fired into Puchinsky's car and he was finally halted by three flat tires.

Washington Twp. Residents Seek To Join City Schools

A petition asking for a transfer of territory from the newly-created Logan Elm School District to the Circleville School District, was put into circulation today in Washington Twp.

The territory included lies entirely within Washington Twp. It forms a rectangle contiguous to Circleville Twp. Its boundaries are the Circleville-Washington Twp. line on the west, Circleville-Scoutsville Road on the south, the Bolender - Pontius Road on the east, and the Pontius Road on the north. All of Knollwood Village is included in the territory.

The petition, originated by William Crist, former president of the now dissolved Washington Twp. board of education, must have the signatures of at least 75 per cent of the qualified electors in the territory.

Boy, 14, Held After Shooting 2 Teen-Agers

HANOVER, Md. (AP)—A 14-year-old boy sought in the shooting and wounding of two other teen-agers was nabbed today not far from the scene of one of the shootings.

State police said Charles Smith was carrying a .22 caliber rifle and a shotgun when captured.

Police said Smith shot a boy and girl Friday night.

One of the shootings occurred in a rural store where young Smith fired point-blank into a group of boys.

Injured by that shotgun blast was 15-year-old Francis Bussey. He was reported in critical condition in a hospital.

Minutes before young Bussey was shot, Carol Ann Downing, 15, was struck in the face by a blast fired through the front door of a friend's home. Her condition was reported as fair.

Albert Jacobs, 46, owner of the store where the shooting occurred, died shortly afterward, apparently of a heart attack.

Mrs. Anna Stone, niece of Jacobs, was behind the counter when a youngster she did not recognize entered the store carrying a gun.

The boy walked toward a group of youths gathered at a pinball machine.

"Don't move," someone said. A shot followed.

After a mass exodus, Mrs. Stone found the Bussey boy on the floor. Police, who talked to the Smith boy's parents, said they were told the boy was "the studious type" who has been "heckled by other boys in the neighborhood."

Bubonic Plague Fatal to Girl, 4

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Bubonic plague, which once killed thousands but now considered rare, is blamed for the death of a little Texas girl.

Four-year-old Laura Bryans of Wichita Falls died of the disease. Dr. Donald E. Fletcher, Wichita Falls General Hospital pathologist, said exhaustive tests had confirmed the child had two types of bubonic plague.

He and other authorities added that any other cases would have developed within 10 days after the girl died. They said concern over possible epidemic was groundless.

4 Russians Visiting Ohio

2 Engagements Await Diplomats in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Four touring officials of the Soviet embassy have a luncheon engagement with a civic forum group here today and a dinner date tonight with financier Cyrus Eaton.

After an overnight stay in Zanesville, their itinerary was from Warren in northeast Ohio to Cleveland by train.

Vladimir Lavorov, counselor of the embassy, is leading the group in a trip through the upper Ohio Valley, viewing all kinds of activity from factories to square dances.

With him are Anatoli M. Goryachev and Sergei A. Bobolov, second secretaries, and Valerian V. Mikhailov, third secretary.

Local officials have been somewhat mum on points of interest the Russians may see, or what parts of the city they will visit. Cleveland has a large population of foreign birth or descent, and city officials apparently want to avoid any "incidents."

WHEN the diplomats were visiting a new high school building at Zanesville Friday night, two unidentified women shouted insults at them, then sped off.

Today's engagement is at the City Club, which is widely known for its Saturday speakers and its lively question and answer periods. During political campaigns, national and state candidates often face City Club audiences with trepidation. The forum questions get pretty sharp.

The dinner will be in the Greenbriar Suite, an adjunct of Hotel Cleveland located in the Terminal Tower. Eaton is chairman of Chesapeake & Ohio, and holds substantial interests in steel, coal and iron properties in the United States and Canada.

Railroads Granted New Rate Increase

COLUMBUS (AP)—A general rate increase granted Friday by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, added to one granted earlier this year, may mean that Ohio railroads will take in about $4 million in additional revenues yearly.

In following a similar action by the Interstate Commerce Commission last month, the PUCO granted the 17 operating railroads in Ohio a 7 per cent increase in freight rates. Earlier they had been granted a 7 per cent emergency increase, which went into effect Feb. 14.

The rate increase for coal amounts to 15 cents a ton, part of which went into effect under the emergency hike. Total increase for grain and livestock, and grain and livestock products, is 9 pct.

Cincinnati Records First Snow of Season

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati had its first snow of the season early today but there wasn't enough of it to stick.

There were scattered light flurries throughout most of the area during the early forenoon.

The U. S. Weather Bureau forecast a high of 46 for the day but predicted no snow. The low temperature tonight was expected to be below freezing.

U. N. Aide May Make Try To Settle Mideast Hassle

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Support grew in the United Nations today for a move to have Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld try personal talks to settle the Middle East crisis.

A General Assembly debate on the crisis was recessed Friday night until Monday after U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge accused the Soviet Union of raising an "artificial war scare" in the Middle East. Lodge said the crisis was designed by the Kremlin to convert Arab nations into Soviet satellites.

Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, the Assembly president, recessed the debate with a plea for members to try over the weekend to reduce tension through quiet diplomacy.

Peru was working on a formal proposal directing Hammarskjöld to go to the trouble spot if needed. It would suggest that he first hold talks here with Syria, Turkey and other interested parties.

The proposal gained support from more than seven other nations as Syria again made clear that she would not accept a mediation offer from Saudi Arabia's King Saud. Turkey accepted and sent a mission to Saudi Arabia but it reportedly returned empty handed to Ankara Friday.

After speeches in the 82-nation Assembly urging Syria to accept mediation, a Syrian spokesman said his nation would not "accept any mediation which would take this complaint out of the U. N."

The debate is based on a Syrian complaint (denied in Ankara) that Turkey is massing troops on the border to attack her.

In Cairo, King Saud is being bitterly accused in private conversations of Egyptians and Syrians with "acting like an American stooge" by offering to mediate the crisis.

On the surface everyone is still trying to be polite. But the offer threatens to drive a final wedge between the Arabian monarch and the Syrian-Egyptian front.

Leaders of the anti-Western front believe Saud is being used as a tool by the Americans to save Turkey from "exposure" in the U. N. General Assembly of allegedly aggressive intentions.

"As far as we are concerned, this mediation offer finishes Saud," an Egyptian close to the government told a newsmen today. "Saud is acting like an American stooge."

Syrian leaders accuse Saud of trying to influence Syria to change its policy to favor the West.

Saud has been reported deeply disturbed by the split in Arab ranks that developed after pro-Soviet officers took over the Syrian Army last August. But he has criticized statements that a leftist Syria creates dangers for the Middle East.

Relations of the oil-rich king with his poorer neighbors began wearing thin early this year. Saud visited Washington, renewed an agreement for an American airbase at Dhahran and seemed favorably disposed toward the Eisenhower doctrine. He proclaimed his opposition to international communism — something Egypt and Syria have been far from doing.

During the Jordan crisis last April Saud put his troops at the disposal of pro-Western King Hussein for possible use against elements favoring Egypt and Syria.

NEW YORK (AP)—Rudolph I. Abel, Russian spy master found guilty of conspiracy to steal United States' military and atomic secrets for the Soviet Union, faces a possible death sentence.

The 55-year-old onetime colonel in the Soviet secret police was found guilty by a jury of nine men and three women on all three counts of an indictment Friday. The jury deliberated 3 hours and 35 minutes.

U. S. District Judge Mortimer W. Byers set Nov. 15 for sentencing.

Byers told the jury in Brooklyn federal court after the verdict was announced: "If I had been on the jury, I would have done the same thing."

Abel was the first foreign national to be tried for espionage in peacetime by a civilian court in the United States.

Shortly after the verdict, the Army announced in Washington that M-Sgt. Roy Rhodes, a key witness for the government, had been confined to the stockade at Ft. Belvoir, Va., "pending a final decision on charges."

RHODES HAD testified during Abel's nine-day trial that he had sold military information to Soviet nationals while he was assigned to Moscow.

A veteran espionage agent, Abel slipped into this country illegally from Canada in 1948.

For nine years he maintained a photographic studio in Brooklyn while he ferreted out national defense data for the Kremlin, the government said.

The jury found him guilty on all three counts of his indictment: 1. Conspiracy to transmit military information to the Soviet government, maximum penalty, death; 2. Conspiracy to gather such information, maximum penalty, 10 years in prison; 3. Conspiracy to remain in this country without registering as a foreign agent with the State Department, maximum penalty, five years in prison.

After that, it is Judge La Buy's decision.

A Du Pont spokesman said Friday in Wilmington, Del., that since the company had until Dec. 24 to file an alternative it would be "premature and improper" for Du Pont to comment at this time.

In Friday's proposal the government suggested that: Du Pont's holdings of GM stock be turned over to the trustees.

The trustees distribute over a 10-year period to eligible common stockholders Du Pont's GM stock in the proportion that his Du Pont stockholdings bear to the total amount of Du Pont common stock outstanding.

Three groups would be barred from such transactions. They are the Christiana Securities Corp. and the Delaware Realty and Investment Co., both Du Pont holding companies, and stockholders of the Delaware Realty Co.

Under the plan put forth in U. S. District Court Friday by the Justice Department's anti-trust division, Du Pont would place its 23 per cent interest in GM with voting trustees.

Sixty per cent of the holdings would be distributed to Du Pont common stockholders over a 10-year period.

Forty per cent would be offered for sale, first to Du Pont stockholders and then at public or private sale.

This would eliminate Du Pont's control over General Motors, the government said, and would avoid "undue impact" on the stock market that might occur if the GM shares were dumped at once.

The U. S. Supreme Court last June ruled that Du Pont illegally controlled General Motors through its ownership of 23 per cent of the huge auto firm's stock — 63 million shares worth $2½ billion.

The big problem was how to dispose of it.

DuPont Urged To Distribute GM Shares To Stockholders

CHICAGO (AP)—The government, offering a solution to a $2½ billion stock disposal problem, has recommended that Du Pont distribute its controlling interest in General Motors Corp. to individual Du Pont stockholders.

Under the plan put forth in U. S. District Court Friday by the Justice Department's anti-trust division, Du Pont would place its 23 per cent interest in GM with voting trustees.

Sixty per cent of the holdings would be distributed to Du Pont common stockholders over a 10-year period.

Forty per cent would be offered for sale, first to Du Pont stockholders and then at public or private sale.

This would eliminate Du Pont's control over General Motors, the government said, and would avoid "undue impact" on the stock market that might occur if the GM shares were dumped at once.

The U. S. Supreme Court last June ruled that Du Pont illegally controlled General Motors through its ownership of 23 per cent of the huge auto firm's stock — 63 million shares worth $2½ billion.

The big problem was how to dispose of it.

The high tribunal dumped the problem back into the hands of Judge Walter J. La Buy in Chicago where the anti-trust action against E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. began.

Last September the government rejected as inadequate a plan by Du Pont that they retain the GM stock, but give up, with certain exceptions, all voting rights.

The defendants have until Dec. 24 to offer another plan to the court. The government will be able to comment on any new proposal Jan. 23.

Talks Booked For Paris In December

U. S., Britain Sound Call for West Allies To Rally New Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is planning to go to Paris in December for what likely will be a NATO summit meeting aimed at revision of western defense systems to meet Russia's stepped-up challenge.

U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton gave that word to the French government in Paris today.

Houghton told Christian Pineau, foreign minister in France's outgoing government, that Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan intend to attend the December meeting of the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

A statement issued by Eisenhower and Macmillan Friday at the conclusion of three days of talks here contained a hint that the council meeting might be converted into a summit session—one attended by heads of government.

EISENHOWER and Macmillan sounded a call for action Friday to reinforce allies all over the world "with the deterrent and retaliatory power of nuclear weapons."

They used this phrase in a 1,500-word "declaration of common purpose" summing up three days of talks here.

The Eisenhower - Macmillan communique dealt almost wholly with the problem of mobilizing free world resources. Otherwise, the two leaders reaffirmed their commitment to defend Turkey under the NATO pact and issued a new call for Soviet action toward unifying Germany through free election.

Officials interpreted the major decisions made by Eisenhower and Macmillan as signalling a new start on Allied security. They said such a new start was needed because present systems have become obsolete in the wake of new weapons developed by both East and West.

As part of the over-all program, the communique disclosed, Eisenhower told Macmillan he would ask Congress to amend the U. S. Atomic Energy Act in order "to permit of close and fruitful collaboration of scientists and engineers of Great Britain, the United States and other friendly nations." This would be a step toward recreating (Continued on Page Two)

Mother, 4 Kiddies, Picket Union Office

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—Trailing by her four children, a 34-year-old waitress picketed a restaurant workers union headquarters Friday.

Mrs. Arlene Garcia carried a sign proclaiming: "Local 126 is depriving me of the right to support my children." Her four boys carried similar signs.

The Bartenders and Culinary Workers local found Mrs. Garcia guilty Oct. 8 of crossing union picket lines during a strike.

She was fined $250 and expelled from the union.

Thugs' Getaway Car Recovered

ASHTABULA (AP)—In their hunt for three men who robbed the Andover Bank of $24,942 Friday, police have recovered the getaway car in which were a holster, two revolvers and a box of ammunition.

The stolen 1952 Mercury sedan was abandoned at Shipman's Landing on Pymatuning Lake, which is south of Andover. Police believe another getaway car was waiting for the men at this spot.

'Far Side' Radios Data 75 Minutes

LOS ANGELES — Scientists received radio data from Project Far Side's high flying rocket for 75 minutes after it whooshed up from its balloon platform, the project director reports.

Dr. Morton Alperin said the instrument package in the rocket reached a speed of 17,000 miles an hour, but burned up when it entered dense atmosphere.

He declined to tell the exact altitude reached by the rockets. The Air Force said two experimental Far Side rockets, designed to reach up to 4,000 miles, had been successful.

Lucky Misfire

DAYTON, Ohio — Foreman John Weisman, 49, is a lucky man four times over.

Police said ex-employee Dolphus Cox walked into the Standard Register Co. here and told Weisman, "This is for getting me fired." Whereupon Cox, 40, took out a revolver and pulled the trigger four times.

The gun didn't go off. Cox was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $1,000 for assault with a deadly weapon.

WHAT'S WRONG HERE?

A charming picture of a lovely little girl reaching for a Bible. What could possibly be wrong with that?

Here's what!

1. The Bible is on the bottom shelf, hard to get at, which means the family doesn't use it frequently.
2. The Bible she's reaching for is written in grown-up language, too hard for her to understand all by herself.
3. The little girl is alone—and she needs help!

Why should the Bible be on the bottom shelf, and why should this little girl have to seek its truth by herself?

The Church stands ready to help your child—and you! It will help you to understand the Bible and its timeless message of God's undiscourageable love for you, your children and all mankind.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Business Needs Pioneer Spirit

Has American business lost the pioneer spirit and ingenuity which in large part are responsible for its dominance in world industry? Has prosperity killed business individuality and replaced it with a conformity which dares not change the status quo? Yes, say many top personnel executives of the nation.

This attack on business conformity came during a meeting of the American Management Association in New York. In an address at that meeting, Melvin H. Baker, chairman of National Gypsum Co., predicted:

"Unless the current trend toward national conformity is reversed, we will be a race of thought-controlled robots."

Mr. Baker is not unduly alarmed. Many modern corporations have adopted the military executive structure in their organizations. That is, the lesser executives serve as little more than a consulting staff to the top hierarchy. These companies frankly admit that they prefer this "yes-man" type of executive.

As explained by a personnel man for an electronics firm, "I look for men who will cooperate and play on our team. In selecting an employee, I'm just as concerned about his personality as his technical ability."

Conformity versus individuality is not a question of cooperating or "playing on the team." Certainly there is room in any business for conflicting views, providing such conflicts do not promulgate divisive influences.

What advocates of conformity seem to overlook is the competitive background of the American system. This includes not only competition between companies, but within the individual organizations. As surely as the opportunity for diverse views within management ceases, so does progress.

This nation, in its 175 years of existence, has produced many men whose feats in the fields of industry and invention have not been equalled. Franklin, Edison, Mellon, Carnegie, Ford, Vanderbilt and the many others like them were not conformists.

It is doubtful that this nation would have become a world leader had these men been content to accept conditions of their days as a utopia beyond which man dared not dream.

Crisis on the Fairways?

Alas, American industry's progress has at last caught up with it. Manufacturers have now produced golf balls that are too powerful for most courses.

So serious has the problem become, many fairway wanderers are openly talking of degressing golf society back 20 years—at least as far as the ball is concerned.

Golf, which has become one of the most popular individual sports in the United States, has a following almost as devoted to the game as does baseball. What will happen if golfers suddenly find their mighty swings no longer produce a 200-yard drive is horrible to imagine. There might even be repercussions in Washington.

As most novice and professional golfers are aware, the object of the game is to hit a small ball with a stick and deposit it securely in a hole in the ground some distance away. Most of the difficulty in this feat lies in the interim terrain.

To make the fulfillment of this act as sporting—and as exasperating—as possible, golf course planners have incorporated many different types of obstacles, or traps, between the tee and the hole. In addition to the usual sand traps, woods and curved fairways, some of the more sadistic planners have added running water, buildings and rock piles.

It has become apparent, however, that the modern golf ball has the ability to evade the most treacherous obstructions, with the result that golf courses have much money invested in sand, water and evergreens providing no useful hindrance. In addition, the prevailing high price of real estate makes it impractical for golf courses to expand distances.

Psychologically, the thrill of a golf ball overshooting its mark no doubt produces an exalted ego in a golfer. By the same token, a consistently shorter drive by a golfer who thought he had mastered the game might produce a substantial number of frustrated personalities among the golf population.

Who can foretell what new strains of frustration might be developed in future generations simply because of a devitalized golf ball?

Nixon Urging Tax-Avoidance?

By George Sokolsky

The International Industrial Development Conference which took place in San Francisco was some kind of a trade promotion-export capital scheme designed by Time-Life International, a couple of magazines, and by the Stanford Research Institute which is described as a private consulting organization. It is said that as many as 500 industrialists attended this meeting. Early announcements indicated that the former Nazi munition-maker, Krupp, would attend, but thus far I have not seen his name.

The most important speech was that delivered by Vice President Richard Nixon who dealt with many subjects until he came to page eight of the mimeographed copy in which he reached something that seems most unusual for him, namely, the utilization of American private capital in foreign countries, particularly such as are tax havens. I quote a paragraph which requires considerable interpretation and study if it is a new fiscal policy:

"The Congress should also consider the feasibility of passing a tax reform similar to one adopted by the United Kingdom a few months ago. This would defer U. S. taxes on income and profits earned entirely abroad until they are actually paid in dividends to the stockholder or the parent company."

"It would give American overseas traders and investors the same encouragement some of them now seek by incorporating abroad. It would immediately increase the funds available to such companies for additional foreign investment, yet in the long run the U. S. Treasury and foreign treasuries would also gain by the tax on income from a larger investment base."

Great Britain can only sustain her economy on foreign trade. This is also true of Japan and of West Germany. They are required by their lack of raw materials, their population surplus, and their need to import raw materials and foodstuffs to engage heavily in foreign trade. To achieve this end, they encourage cartels, they subsidize industrial and commercial enterprises, they create tax havens, and they orient their foreign policy toward benefiting foreign trade. Is the same true about the United States? There is no evidence to that effect. The evidence shows that our foreign trade, apart from government subsidized exports of goods and money, amounts to a very small fraction of our national income. Of course, there are some companies, since the beginning of World War II, which have benefited from foreign trade, but none of these industries have done as much in the foreign as in the domestic field.

What Vice President Nixon proposes is that American capital, exported abroad and remaining abroad as to principal and profit, should not be taxed by the United States, until the profits are brought back to this country. This idea could stimulate foreign trade; it could also stimulate a flight of capital to a tax haven.

I find nothing in the speech which protects the United States from such a flight of capital to a tax haven or which protects the American who stays at home and invests his money and labor in the United States and who pays his taxes honestly and regularly. Actually, this exported American capital could be used as an unfair competition against the tax-paying American and against highly-taxed and high-wages American labor. And the tax-haven operator would be safe.

Get Proper Baby Furniture

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

A brand-new baby needs a place to sleep and little else in the way of furniture. The new parents, however, will find a bath table and facilities for storing the infant's clothing helpful, although not absolutely essential.

As the child grows older, there will be a few other articles you'll need such as a high-chair, play pen, toy chest, a toilet seat or a nursery chair.

The baby will need a high-chair by the time he is six months old, when he begins to sit up and is eating solid food. Be sure to get a sturdy one with legs spread outward to prevent a lively youngster from causing it to overturn.

guarded by such law as Vice President Nixon or whoever incubated this idea, proposes.

Also how does this affect the foreigner or tax-haven American who sets up outside of the United States with tax-free American dollars, manufactures goods which he imports into the United States but leaves the capital and profits from such American sales abroad? Under this plan, he could undersell his own American company, eventually produce a tax loss here, but taking a profit in his foreign subsidiaries, and paying taxes nowhere, or a very small tax. As a matter of fact, the American low-priced automobile is already underpriced in competition with imported automobiles made by American-owned companies abroad.

We are subsidizing the industrialization of many weak and backward and war-damaged countries. These subsidies come out of taxes. These countries are manufacturing goods at lower prices than we can manufacture them because their labor costs less, their taxes are lower, their money costs less, and they get direct government subsidies.

What are we going to do to protect our industries and our labor from this type of competition? If we do nothing, watch the lay-offs!

Trays may be of plastic, wood or metal, although I think you might find the plastic variety easier to keep clean. Some sort of strap or safety device should be provided to hold the youngster securely in the chair.

A play pen is a great convenience both to the baby and his mother. Not only does it keep a youngster out of mischief, it also helps teach him to walk by providing safe, sure support.

The play pen you select should be large enough to provide the baby with plenty of play room.

I advise you to get the type which has a raised floor. This will keep your infant away from dirt and drafts. Also, the folding mechanism should be simple and free from any danger to prying fingers.

If you want, you can begin by placing the baby in his play pen for an hour or so each day as soon as he can roll over.

A toy chest, naturally, is handy for storing toys. But more important than helping to keep baby's room neat, it will help to train the youngster.

Teaching him to put his toys in the toy chest will show him that everything has a proper place. It will also teach him obedience and respect.

A nursery chair or toilet seat is essential for training the youngster. One might be better than the other, depending upon the child.

Some children refuse to be left alone while sitting on a training seat. If your child insists that you must be with him at these times, a nursery chair might be best. Since it can be moved about, it will permit you to continue your household chores while still providing your youngster with the company he desires.

Softening of Business Boom Seen by Industrial Leaders

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Softening of the business boom and a letup of inflation were foreseen by top industrial executives meeting here today with Secretary of Commerce Weeks.

Members of the Commerce Department's Business Advisory Council agreed generally that business is leveling off and that 1958, with possible minor ups and downs, will average out "about as good as 1957."

In talking privately with reporters, none used the word "recession." Some suggested the lull as "healthful," and few saw ill omens in the recent sinking spells of the stock market.

Several of the industrialists thought business activity might dip slightly after the year-end holiday rush, before resuming an upward march that has characterized the last 2½ years.

The Council scheduled a closed door, round-robin discussion of the business outlook with Weeks and other officials including Chairman Raymond J. Saulnier of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers.

The government values the economic appraisal of the BAC for its membership includes the heads of more than 100 of the largest U.S. corporations.

Over-all, the picture of 1958 drawn for BAC is one of fairly stable prices, slowly rising consumer income and retail sales, a weakening in some manufacturing gain in housing construction, and industries but a rise in others, a decline in federal spending offset by a rise in state and local government outlays.

Reporters could find no trace of alarm over the stock market slump.

Nylon hose have passed their 18th birthday. They're on the last leg of the second decade.

Hosiery that lasts 18 years must be good. Anyhow, 18 years is quite a run.

Nylons have made the American woman's leg the best looking in the world. At least, it attracts a lot of calf-eyes.

The 'thing about nylons is, they're sometimes almost invisible. You just look and look and look.

They say diamonds are a girl's best friend. May be, but nylons make more.

A nylon even looks good on the seamy side. That's a facet diamonds can't claim.

The hosiery industry says one out of every six women now wears nylons in colors to match her ensemble. You, too, can look in the pink.

Dr. Jack Beal Addresses Pickaway Garden Club

Tells Medical Value of Plants

The October meeting of the Pickaway County Garden Club was opened with the introduction of Dr. Jack Beal of the Ohio State University College of Pharmacy. Dr. Beal discussed "Medicinal Plants in the Garden" and illustrated with color slides of specimens grown in the college drug garden.

Among the plants included were a number which are sources of heart stimulant properties. Digitalis purpurea, a "stately flower", yields properties which are capable of increasing efficiency of the heart. These glycosides, which are also extracted from other varieties of foxglove, are administered as tablets or as liquids.

One of Dr. Beal's favorite flowers is convallaria (Lily of the Valley) which was also used as a heart stimulant prior to the popularity of digitalis.

He said that autumn crocus is the plant source of seeds and corms which are used in treatment of gout. If one has had no personal experience with the ailment called gout, he has at least smiled over the comic strip The Katzenjammer Kids with the chronically ailing captain.

Autumn crocus is also the source of colchicine used in floriculture to double chromosomes to achieve brighter colors, bigger flowers, and bigger fruit.

In contrast to the action of digitalis is Monkshood (Aconite) a potent heart depressant and depressant of blood pressure.

Castor beans are very ornamental plants with considerable economic and drug significance. The Camomile, of the daisy family, is a much requested item in the pharmacy but despite its popularity, there is as yet no scientific basis for its use. Dr. Beal believes that this plant should rate further investigation.

Pro Football Loop Deadlock May Be Broken

None of Tied Teams Meet Each Other in Sunday's Contests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The first place tie existing in both conferences of the National Football League may be broken Sunday when all 12 teams roar into the fifth week of competition. But don't bet on it.

None of the five deadlocked teams oppose each other. The New York Giants and Cleveland Browns, tied for the top of the Eastern Conference with identical 3-1 records, face Washington and the Chicago Cardinals, respectively. The Giants will be at home while the Browns will be on the road.

San Francisco, Detroit and Baltimore, in a three-way tie for the Western Conference lead, also have won three while losing one. The Forty-Niners will be host to the Chicago Bears, the Lions will meet the Rams in Los Angeles and the Colts play the Green Bay Packers at home.

The Giants run an 11-point favorite to repeat over the Redskins.

Cleveland, knocked out of the unbeaten ranks by the previously winless Philadelphia Eagles, rate a 2½-point choice over the improved Cardinals. Fired up by their 44-0 rout of the Redskins last week, the Cardinals, sparked by Ollie Matson and Lamar McHan, are primed to pull an upset. Cleveland lacks the offense of the Cards who have been able to win only twice in 14 meetings with the Browns.

Another upset may be furnished by the Bears, whose meeting with the Forty-Niners is a return engagement. San Francisco was hard pressed to defeat the Bears, 24-14, in their previous clash. Chicago won its first game when Willie Gailmore, rookie halfback, scored three touchdowns last Sunday. The Bears, however, will have to contain Y. A. Tittle, the veteran passer, who has thrown seven touchdown passes this season.

Substitute Sub Loses, Wins Too

NEW YORK (AP)—Sometimes the loser can win, too, Gale Kerwin of Ottawa found out Friday night.

The 22-year-old lightweight, substituting for a sub against more experienced Johnny Busso, a ranking fighter, lost the unanimous decision but made a hit in his Madison Square Garden main event debut. It was a tight, lively fight all the way. Busso, 23-year-old, ninth ranking lightweight contender from New York, switched the tide his way in the sixth round by flooring his hooking rival for nine with a right to the body, and a left and right to the jaw.

2 Band Members Aid in Victory

EAST MOUNTAIN, Tex. (AP)—With two band members holding down spots in the line, East Mountain's High School football team defeated Spring Hill 40-13 Friday night.

East Mountain Coach Lonnie Senton appealed for help after a star tackle and fullback Wendell Harvey was killed in an auto crash and influenza further reduced the squad to eight players. Seven members of the band volunteered. However, most of the ill boys recuperated and only bandmen Kenneth Lloyd at guard and James Beckham at tackle were needed.

Medina County Boy Is Killed by Shotgun

MEDINA (AP)—Terrance Fiala, 11, of nearby Chatham, was killed Friday by a charge from his 16-gauge shotgun. He was squirrel hunting with his brother Louis, 14, who said Terrance tripped in a thicket, dropped the gun and it blasted into his chest.

The Lions may also find a tatter in the Rams, who can be tough at home. The Colts rule a 10-point favorite to repeat over the Packers, whom they walloped 45-17 in Milwaukee a couple of weeks ago. Despite their shutout by New York, the Steelers are a 3½-point choice to hand the Eagles their fourth defeat in five starts.

Kansas Threat Snubbed by Miami

MIAMI (AP)—The upset nonsense was stopped, but good; Friday night as Miami's Hurricanes pounded Kansas 48-6.

It looked like the Jayhawks had their foot in the door, scoring in the first five minutes of play. But Miami slammed the door with a bang in a 21-point second quarter and breezed the rest of the way.

A little guy named Fran Curci ran for a pair of Miami TDs and passed for another while quarterbacking the Hurricanes to four touchdowns in 15 minutes.

Japanese Golfers Build Big Lead

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's Torakichi Nakamura and Koichiro, using their putters like wands of magic, shot into an almost unsurmountable nine-stroke lead over the favored Americans today. One round remains in the international Canada Cup golf tournament.

It appeared it would take a miracle for Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret, the two tourney-toughened veterans of the U. S. circuit, to overtake the inspired pros of the host nation who show no signs of slackening their sub-par sweep.

Cincinnati Drowns In Rocky Fork Lake

Massillon Topples Mighty Warren

MASSILLON (AP)—Massillon's Tigers were back in the thick of the scrap for top rating among Ohio's scholastic football teams after toppling first-ranked Warren Friday night 20-14.

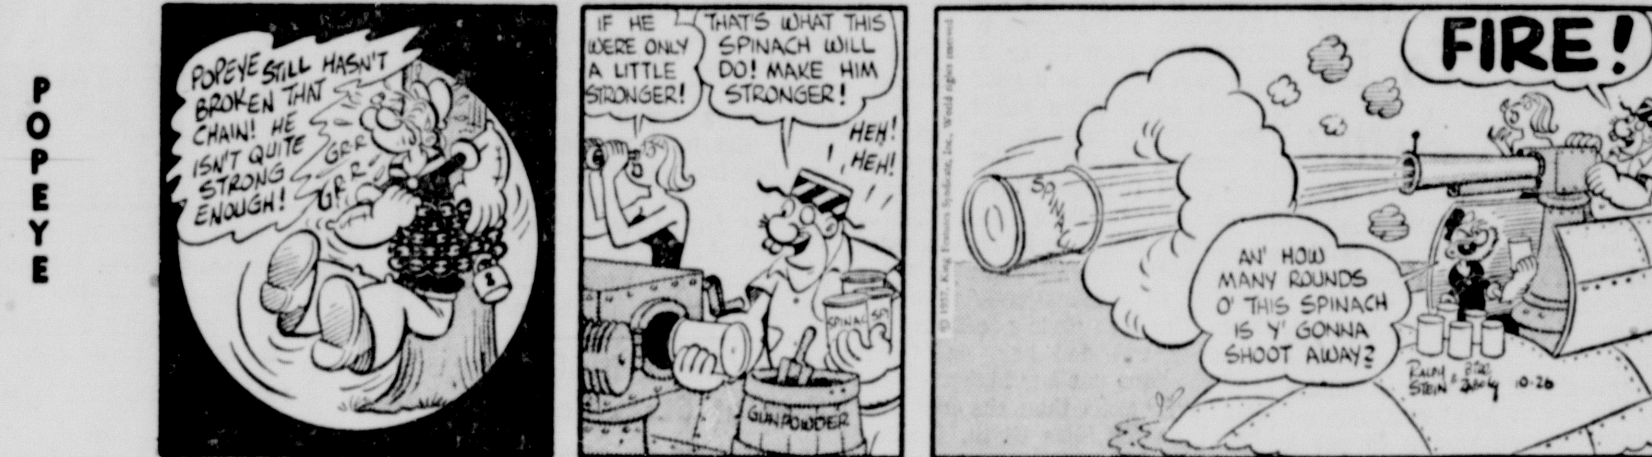

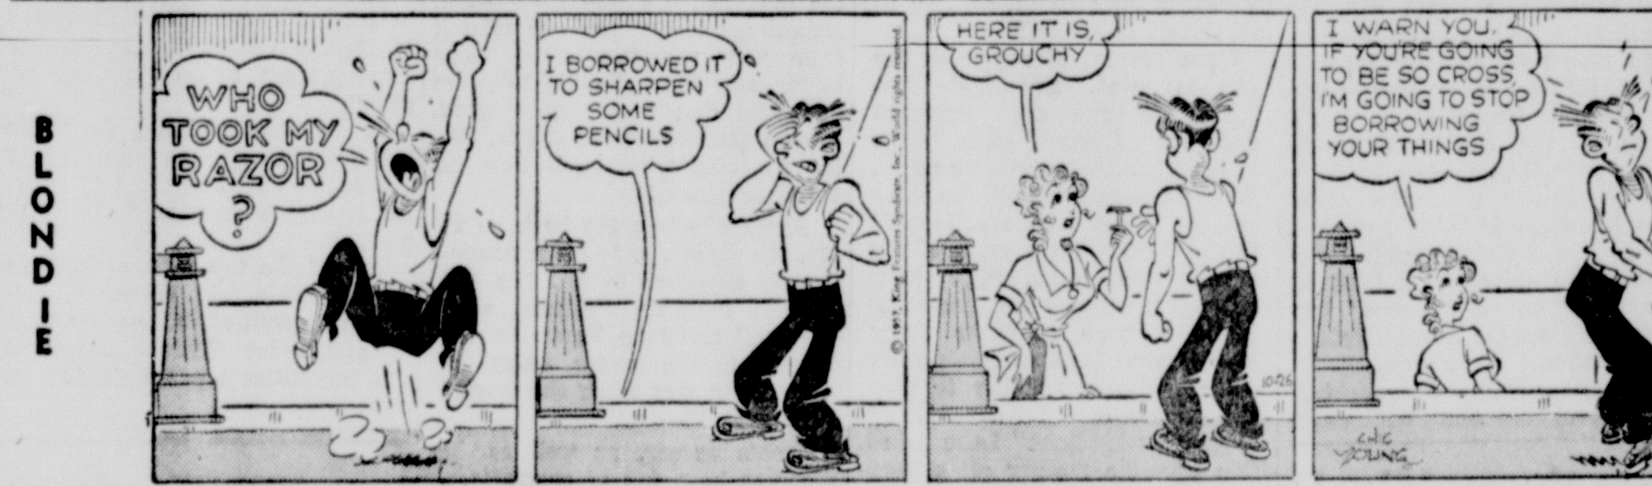

Sub quarterback Joe Sparma clicked on a 38-yard touchdown pass to end Clyde Childers just as the game was ending to provide the victory that sent a screaming crowd of 21,384 fans pouring onto the field. No try for the extra point was possible.

Massillon, which had sixth-place ranking among the high school grid powers at the start of this week, has won five and lost one.

This Outer Space Business Getting Rather Demanding

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This business of outer space is getting rather demanding, complicated and more than a little confusing to the ordinary brain.

For instance, the American government has 17 problems it says it wants somebody to solve such as a tunneling device to bore through the earth at 6,000 feet an hour without filling up the hole behind it.

And then there is the story from Amsterdam about a Dutch educator who says he has developed a cosmic language to communicate with creatures of outer space.

As for the American government's 17 problems, Sputnik does not show on the list. But there's something just as good or better—"aerial platforms, manned or unmanned, for observation and missile launching."

This is one of 387 technical puzzles presented in a 34-page catalogue just issued by the U. S. Commerce Department under the title "Inventions Wanted by the Armed Forces."

If you're an amateur or professional inventor, the list is intended to give you something useful to invent.

For example, a death ray. Or a device to get troops rapidly across rivers or canyons without bridges. Or an idea on how to put out an atomic fire in a big city.

None of the problems seems much easier than those.

The Dutchman with the outer space language is Hans Freudenthal, 52-year-old mathematics professor at the University of Utrecht. He lectured on his "Lincos" language before the Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences.

Freudenthal said he thought it very improbable that our earth was the only spot in the universe populated by intelligent beings. He set out to create a radio language.

For building up a cosmic vocabulary of only 150 words, Freudenthal has written a book of 300 pages that will appear shortly.

It is only natural, he said, that mathematics be used first to communicate with beings from other worlds because mathematics is the most abstract science.

The simplest type of text possible would be sent first. For instance:

Four dots, RIK, four dots. RIK stands for a combination of radio signals of unknown meaning.

This is repeated and alternated by any other number of dots under 10, followed by RIK and the same number of dots.

The receiver is expected to grasp that RIK has the meaning of "IS"—the equality sign.

Next lesson: Four dots, POF, two dots, RIK, six dots.

POF stands for a different combination of radio signals.

Freudenthal expects our counterparts to understand that POF has the meaning of "plus."

Other arithmetic operations, such as minus, greater than, smaller than, multiplication and division, also are being devised.

1937 'Sweater Girl' Now Glamorous Picture Mother

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — America's "Sweater Girl" of 20 years ago is today's "Glamor Movie Mother"—and believe me, mom never looked so good in the kitchen, sending the kiddies off to school!

Lana Turner, of course, is the girl in mind, and she's just passed through that awkward age—jumped from sexpot roles to dramatic, more mature parts. When Lana was offered the juicy role of "Constance MacKenzie" in the torrid film version of the equally-torrid tome, "Peyton Place," there was one stumbling block which producer Jerry Wald feared Lana wouldn't cross—the role required her to play the mother of a 17-year-old.

"Are you kidding?" Lana asked. "Me play the mother of a teenager? It's too much like real-life. Everyone will believe me! I'd be tickled to play it, or any role if the part's good in a good picture."

You could have knocked Wald over with a feather. He expected a session in which he'd have to point out that he also convinced Joan Crawford to do "Mildred Pierce." But Lana remembered that in "Mildred," Joan was the mother of a teenager—Ann Blyth. For Miss Crawford's efforts the industry awarded her an Oscar and the fans put her higher on the popularity polls than she had ever been! As for Miss Blyth, the role launched her career.

"If everyone doesn't know I have a teenage daughter of my own," Lana laughed, "they either haven't been reading the papers or I'm slipping."

SHE WAS REFERRING to the recent stories about her daughter's breaking three vertebrae during a summer camp horseback riding accident, an event which forced Lana to leave the making of "Peyton Place" to fly to her daughter's side. Earlier in the year, Lana and Steve Crane made front pages when they picked up daughter Cheryl, 14, at a downtown Los Angeles police station, where she had been taken after running away from home.

"They won't have to do much to age me," Lana said. "I can play the part just the way I look—and sometimes feel." You can take it from your reporter, Lana looks better now than she did 10 years ago—and that was mighty good. It's no secret how old she is, 37—it's reported with each new divorce or marriage.

She broke into the business at 17, the same age her film daughter is supposed to be. The girl chosen to play "Allison MacKenzie" is Diane Versi, as unknown to the public today as Ann Blyth was when she started "Mildred Pierce."

Lana's career, as well as her life, has been full of contrasts.

In "Peyton Place," she will give out with every emotion she's ever learned. As "Constance MacKenzie," she operates a small dress shop in a small New England town. She tries to hide her past, and the fact her daughter is illegitimate. Lana loves every handkerchief full of tears it will bring. And Wald is sure that Turner in a sweater or sock will mean sensational box office business.

New Crafts Building Due at State Fair

COLUMBUS — Ohio State Fair Manager D. Robert Jones reports that construction will begin Dec. 1 on the new $455,000 arts and crafts building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The 220-by-145 foot one story brick building will be near the Youth Center on 17th Avenue. It will be completed in time for the 1958 fair, Jones said.

Attorney, 82, Handed 10-Day Jail Sentence

DAYTON — Common Pleas Court Judge Neal F. Zimmers Friday sentenced Drewery Wyson, an 82-year-old attorney, to 10 days in jail and fined him $200 for contempt of court.

Wyson refused to apologize after accusing the judge during an Oct. 14 trial of siding with gambling interests.

Ohio Company's Anti-Union Circular Eyed by Probers

WASHINGTON — "I was sucker enough to vote 'yes' when they promised 25 cents and no strike. I'm still paying for the last six week strike..."

The quotation is from an anti-union circular showing a cartoon of one worker admonishing another employee of the Clyde (Ohio) Division of Whirlpool Corp. to vote against any union in his plant.

The circular was one of five produced Thursday before the Senate Rackets Committee during an investigation of Whirlpool's successful efforts to block a union drive at Clyde.

The sheets—all cartoons—were signed by "Vote No Committee" at the Clyde plant, an organization of anti-union employees.

But Warren B. Pleister, director of employee relations there, acknowledged under questioning that the circulars were paid for by the company.

Moreover, he said, his firm paid Labor Relations Associates, a Chicago firm headed by Nathan Shefferman, close to $25,000 a year for three years to help keep the union out—among its other duties. "We think this money was wisely spent," Pleister told Chairman McClellan (D-Ark). "So do our employees and so does our community."

As it developed later, the "Vote No Committee" was only one of the devices used by LRA in working to stop a union at Clyde-Whirlpool.

One of the top LRA consultants on the Clyde job, Walter J. Patterson, identified a specific plan of action for Clyde-Whirlpool in the committee's possession as his own.

This plan included such ideas as: "Never dignify" the unionists, but call them "bums and hoodlums"; stress the danger of Communism; never talk about wage differentials; give anti-union literature to the local American Legion for distribution.

Shefferman's firm, however, appears to have varied its plans according to the management employing it.

The committee has in its files, a source disclosed, another plan of action for a different firm on how to keep out unions.

This is one entitled "Plan of Operation During a Union Campaign." The approach differs considerably from the one used at Clyde.

Suggestions in this plan include what is described as a "talk-to-the-guy" approach.

This means that designated employees should be talked to by supervisors in an effort to dissuade them from joining a union.

As the plan puts it: "If it is felt necessary by the board of strategy that some of these associated (employees) can be more easily made 'company', than the supervisor may be told that an increase in salary is to be given... (however) do not waste money on ill-placed salary increases."

Critic Outlines Notes about TV

Groucho Marx Holds Singular Distinction

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Notes and comment on the TV scene:

The nice thing about being Groucho Marx is that you can say anything to anybody and get away with it. For instance, at a recent party he was introducing Guy Madison to people as "Wyatt Earp." Guy (Wild Bill Hickok) didn't seem to mind a bit....

The best-prepared show of the TV season will be Mary Martin's "Annie Get Your Gun" on Thanksgiving Eve. It has run in legit form for a dozen weeks in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Only 16 minutes of the play will be dropped for the home screens.

The fabulous horse-on-treadmill gallop by Mary will be on the show. She'll film it and the film will be used in case something goes wrong in the live version....

Folks are still talking about the amazing job Mickey Rooney did as Pinocchio. He actually was the puppet boy, with none of the Rooneyisms apparent. Rooney is riding high these days....

Amazing how frightened those stars look while announcing between the acts of Playhouse 90. And what happened to that show this season? It has yet to reach any of last year's peaks....

On the basis of his first show, look for Frank Sinatra to dominate Friday nights. Some of it was amateurish—those stage waits, offstage noises—but Frank kept things moving in amiable style and was in fine voice.

Another Kind Of Fat To Be Cut by Army

WASHINGTON — The Army, already pressed to cut the fat from its spending program, is also attacking fat on another front, that of its personnel.

A recent order, sent out in the form of a 42-page supply bulletin, recommends a 15-day low calorie diet. It's up to local commanders whether—and on whom—to put it into effect.

The bulletin suggests the diet "is applicable for use for personnel who have consistently put on weight due to the consumption of a ration of higher caloric value than required by their physical activity." Or in other words, those who get fat because they eat too much.

Then, in a tactical vein, it adds: "The success of using this menu will depend on such factors as—the designation of a separate mess where it will be served, proper indoctrination and instruction on good eating habits, and motivating the individual by convincing him that he will both feel and look better if he eats a diet more in keeping with his energy requirements."

A suggested 15-day menu contains an average of 2,308 calories for each day, as contrasted with the 3,600 calories which the Army says are needed by the physically active and 3,000 by the inactive.

Dayton Cops Chided For Safety Remarks

DAYTON — Two Dayton police officers are to be given letters of reprimand for remarks they made to a newspaper reporter about the accident hazard created by drivers who open car doors in moving traffic. Police Chief Paul J. Price said remarks by Sgt. Ray Metzger and Patrolman Joe Yenger showed "poor judgment."
